Instructions to Authors

General Policy

The Journal of the Chemical Society is a medium for reporting selected original and significant contributions to new chemical knowledge. Articles which do not advance knowledge (e.g. reviews) will not normally be considered for publication in the Journal.

All contributions are judged in the criteria of (i) originality and quality of scientific content and (ii) appropriateness of the length to content of new science. Thus, papers reporting results which could be routinely predicted or result from application of standard procedures or techniques are unlikely to prove acceptable in the absence of other attributes which themselves make publication desirable.

Although short articles are acceptable, the Society strongly discourages fragmentation of a substantial body of work into a number of short publications. Unnecessary fragmentation will be a valid reason for rejection of manuscripts.

The Journal is published in five Transactions:

Perkin I: Organic and Bio-organic;

Perkin II: Physical Organic;

Dalton: Inorganic;

Faraday I: Physical;

Faraday II: Chemical Physics.

Authors are requested to indicate, at the time they submit a typescript, the Transactions for which it is intended. Should this seem unsuitable, the Editor will inform the author.

Conditions Governing Acceptance

Contributions which have appeared or have been accepted for publication with essentially the same content in another journal or which incorporate freely available printed work will not be published in the Journal except by permission of the Council. This restriction does not apply to results previously published in materially abbreviated form, as a paper presented at a symposium, as a communication to Chemical Communications, as a letter to the Editor of other periodicals, or as a patent.

Contributions are accepted by the Society on the understanding that the authors (a) have obtained any necessary authority for publication, and (b) will, if requested, surrender their copyright to the Society. Authors are solely responsible for the factual accuracy of their contributions.

Since the Society reserves the right to retain all typescripts sent to it, authors are advised to keep copies. When contributions have been submitted for publication the authors are not at liberty, save by permission of the Society, to withdraw or delay them or to publish them elsewhere until after publication by the Society.*

Submission of Articles

Typescripts should be addressed to:

The Director of Publications, The Royal Society of Chemistry,
Burlington House, London W1V 0BN.

Three copies of the typescript (a top copy and two good quality carbon or Xerox copies) are required. Rapid publication is aided by careful preparation of text and illustrations and strict adherence to the format and conventions of individual Transactions; detailed Instructions to Authors are available on request from the Editor. Particular attention is drawn to the use of (i) SI units and associated conventions, (ii) IUPAC nomenclature for compounds, and (iii) standard methods of literature citation.

Administration

Receipt of a contribution for consideration will be acknowledged immediately by the Editorial Office. The acknowledgement will indicate the paper reference number assigned to the contribution. Authors are particularly asked to quote it on all subsequent correspondence.

Reprints

Although 50 reprints are provided free for each paper a further order may be made on the order form sent to the authors with the proofs.

* Attention is drawn to the Society's By-Law 91.

Notes

It has always been the policy of the Faraday Transactions that brevity should not be a factor influencing acceptability for publication. In addition however to full papers both sections carry at the end of each issue a section headed 'Notes', which are short self-contained accounts of experimental observations, results, or theory that will not require enlargement into 'full' papers. The 'Notes' section is not used for preliminary communications.

The layout of a 'Note' is the same as that of a paper. Short summaries are required.

The procedure for submission, administration, refereeing, editing and publication of 'Notes' is the same as for 'full' papers. However, 'Notes' are published more quickly than papers since their brevity facilitates processing at all stages.

The Editors endeavour to meet authors' wishes as to whether an article is a full paper or a 'Note', but since there is no sharp dividing line between the one and the other, either in terms of length or character of contents, the right is retained to transfer overlong 'Notes' to the 'full papers' section. As a guide a 'Note' should not exceed 1500 words or word-equivalents.

Nomenclature and Symbolism

For many years the Society has actively encouraged the use of standard IUPAC nomenclature and symbolism in its publications as an aid to the accurate and unambiguous communication of chemical information between authors and readers. In order to encourage authors to use IUPAC nomenclature rules when drafting papers, attention is drawn to the following publications in which both rules themselves and guidance on their use are given.

Physicochemical Quantities and Units

Manual of Symbols and Terminology for Physicochemical Quantities and Units. (Pure and Appl. Chem., Vol. 51, No. 1, 1979, pp. 1-41. Also available as a soft-cover booklet from Pergamon Press, Oxford.)

Surface Chemistry

'Definitions, Terminology, and Symbols in Colloid and Surface Chemistry - I.' (Pure and Appl. Chem., Vol. 31, No. 4, 1972, pp. 577-638.)

'Definitions, Terminology, and Symbols in Colloid and Surface Chemistry - II. Heterogeneous Catalysts.' (Pure and Appl. Chem., Vol. 46, No. 1, 1976, pp. 71-90.)

In addition, the terminology and symbols for the following subject areas are available either in the form of soft-cover booklets from Pergamon Press (denoted by *) or have been the subject of articles in Pure and Applied Chemistry in recent years: activities;* chromatography; electrochemistry; electron spectroscopy; equilibria, fluid flow; ion exchange; liquid-liquid distribution; molecular force constants; Mössbauer spectra; nuclear chemistry; pH; polymers quantum chemistry; radiation;* Raman spectra; reference materials (recommended reference materials for the realisation of physicochemical properties: general introduction, enthalpy, optical rotation, surface tension, optical refraction, molecular weight, absorbance and wavelength, pressure-volume-temperature relationships, reflectance, potentiometric ion activities, testing distillation columns); solution chemistry; spectrochemical analysis; surface chemistry; thermodynamics; and zeolites.

Finally, the rules for the naming of organic and inorganic compounds are dealt with in the following publications from Pergamon Press:

'Nomenclature of Organic Chemistry, Sections A, B, C, D, E, F, and H', 1979.

'Nomenclature of Inorganic Chemistry', 1971.

A complete listing of all IUPAC nomenclature publications appears in the 1981 Index issues of J. Chem. Soc.

Publication of Theoretical and Computational Papers

The Journals Committee has considered its policy towards the publication of papers with a heavily computational content, particularly where these involve standard methods, such as semi-empirical or ab initio calculations of molecular electronic properties using readily available computer programs. Many such papers report what would be considered 'routine work' in other areas of chemistry and have often included extensive detail.

A specialist sub-committee formulated a set of proposals which circulated to a large representative sample of theoretical chemists and met with general acceptance. These, with the comments on them, form the basis of this notice.

The Journals Committee recognises that computational work can play a valuable role in chemistry, and will continue to do so on an increasing scale. It accepts the time-honoured principle that the first criterion for publication of a paper by the Society should be the worthiness of the chemical problem considered, rather than the particular techniques employed by the author. For example, the use of a new computing algorithm, or the modification of a program, would not usually, on its own, provide sufficient justification for publication.

The Journals Committee recommends to authors the following guidelines for the preparation of computational papers, so that the material can be presented concisely and effectively.

- (i) Papers should be submitted to the appropriate journal: a paper containing innovations in theory to Faraday Transactions II, one in which the computations are incidental to the chemistry to Perkin, Dalton or Faraday I Transactions. Papers concerned mainly with computational details are unlikely to be accepted.
- (ii) The purpose of the paper and the precise objectives of the calculations performed should be clearly stated: the results obtained should be reported only in so far as they relate to those objectives.
- (iii) Many papers use a routine procedure based on a well documented method, be it semi-empirical or ab initio. It is then sufficient to name the particular variant, referring to key papers in which the method was developed, to cite the computer program used, and to indicate briefly any modification made by the author. A review of theoretical background would be out of place, but an author should say why he considers the method adequate for his purposes.
- (iv) Extensive tabulation of numerical results, such as the magnitudes of atomic orbital coefficients, electron populations, contour maps of molecular orbitals and electron densities, and peripheral material of a similar nature, is normally unnecessary. Lengthy line-by-line discussion of such material is, as a general rule, quite unacceptable. Where an author considers that there is a special need to make such material available to other workers, as with highly accurate computations, for example, then this may be deposited with the British Library as a Supplementary Publication. Such material should be submitted with the main paper, clearly distinguished from it, and referred to in the main text.

Guidelines can never provide sufficient criteria for acceptance or rejection of a paper. Critical assessment of the theoretical methods used in a computation, and of their suitability for the purpose in hand, will continue to be entrusted to specialist referees who must also decide whether the results are new and advance science.

Deposition of Data—Supplementary Publications Scheme

Preamble

The growing volume of research that produces large quantities of data, the increasing facilities for analysing such data mechanically, and the rising cost of printing are each making it very difficult to publish in the Journal in the normal way the full details of the experimental data which become available. Moreover, whilst there is a large audience for the general method and conclusions of a research project, the number of scientists interested in the details, and in particular in the data, of any particular case may be quite small. The British Library Lending Division (B.L.L.D.) in consultation with the Editors of scientific journals, has now developed a scheme whereby such data and detail may be stored and then copies made available on request at the B.L.L.D., Boston Spa. The Society is a sponsor of this scheme and has indicated to the B.L.L.D. its wish to use the facilities being made available in this 'Supplementary Publications Scheme'.

Bulk information (such as crystallographic structure factor tables, computer programmes and output, evidence for amino-acid sequences, spectra, etc.), which accompany papers published in future issues of the Society's Journal may in future be deposited, free of charge, with the Supplementary Publications Scheme, either at the request of the author and with the approval of the referees or on the recommendation of referees and the approval of the author.

The Scheme

Under this scheme, authors will submit articles and the supplementary material to the Journal simultaneously in the normal way, and both will be refereed. If the paper is accepted for publication the supplementary material will be sent by the Society to the B.L.L.D. where it will be stored. Copies will be obtainable by individuals both in the U.K. and abroad on quoting a supplementary publication number that will appear in the parent article.

Preparation of Material

Authors will be responsible for the preparation of camera-ready copy according to the following specifications (although the Society will be prepared to help in case of difficulty).

- (a) Optimum page size for text or tables in typescript: up to 30 cm × 21 cm.
- (b) Limiting page size for text or tables in typescript: 33 cm × 24 cm.
- (c) Limiting size for diagrams, graphs, spectra, etc.: 39 cm × 28.5 cm.
- (d) Tabular matter should be headed descriptively on the first page, with column headings recurring on each page.
- (e) Pages should be clearly numbered.

It is recommended that all material which is to be deposited should be accompanied by some prefatory text. Normally this will be the summary from the parent paper and authors will greatly aid the deposition of the material if a duplicate copy of the summary is provided. If authors have the facilities available the use of a type face designed to be read by computers is encouraged.

Deposition

The Society will be responsible for the deposition of the material with the B.L.L.D. The B.L.L.D. will not receive material direct from authors since the Library wishes to ensure that the material had been properly and adequately refereed.

Action by the Society

The Society will receive a manuscript for publication together with any supplementary material for deposition and will circulate all of this to referees in the normal way. When the edited manuscript is sent to the printers the supplementary material will be sent for deposition to the B.L.L.D. who will issue the necessary publication number. The Society will add to the paper, at the proof stage, a footnote indicating what material has been deposited in the Supplementary Publications Scheme, the number of pages it occupies, the supplementary publication number, and details as to how copies may be obtained.

Availability

Copies of Supplementary Publications may be obtained from the B.L.L.D. on demand by organisations which are registered borrowers. They should use the normal forms and coupons for such requests addressing them as follows:

Mr J. P. Chillag,
British Library Lending Division,
Boston Spa,
Wetherby,
West Yorkshire, LS23 7BQ, U.K.

Non-registered users may also obtain copies of Supplementary Publications but should first apply for price quotations. These are available from the Loans Office at the above address.

In all correspondence with the B.L.L.D. or the Society authors must cite the supplementary publication number.

International Collaboration

A similar scheme (known as the National Auxiliary Publications Service) is being operated in the U.S.A. by the American Society for Information Science. Similar schemes are also being contemplated in other countries. The provision of reciprocal arrangements for the exchange of supplementary data between the various national deposition centres is being investigated.
